Was Busy Day for West Shokan Justice

West Shokan, March 1.—Local residents witnessed a court case held Saturday morning 10 o'clock at the garage office of Deputy Sheriff Claude Bell at North Main Street, where John Rose, 54, of Olive Bridge, was being tried for disorderly conduct against the property of Raymond Strout, also of Olive Bridge, but formerly of New York city. The charges grew out of Mr. Rose's alleged prowling about the recently acquired Strout property during the night. He was arrested on Friday, February 24, by Troopers Raymond Dunn and Joseph Nolan of the Phenicia patrol and had been committed to the Ulster county jail for his appearance at Judge Lester S. Davis's court the following morning.

Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneux of Sheriff John Saxe's staff at Kingston brought the defendant to court where Justice Fred L. Woliner presided. Justice Davis acting as clerk taking down the voluminous minutes of the case. Constable Eddie Winkler and Deputy Sheriff Claude Bell acted as court officers. Troopers Dunn and Nolan, the arresting officers, appeared as the prosecution for the state of New York. Mr. Rose pleaded not guilty and demanded a hearing which was held Saturday.

Edgar A. Cronk, delegate to State Grange session, and Mrs. Charles Jenkins, gave interesting reports and outlined the Grange objectives for the ensuing year.

Worthy Master Seth Lippincott and Mrs. Lippincott, will represent the local Grange at Ulster County Pomona Grange session to be held at Lake Katrine on Friday.

A resolution was adopted protesting against the extra expense by the State of New York of a sum exceeding a million dollars, to finance the proposed special convention and election of delegates to consider repeal of the state of New York.

Mr. Rose pleaded not guilty and demanded a hearing which was held Saturday.

At The Theatres

Kingston: "The King's Vacation". George Arliss scores another personal triumph in this romantic story of a king who grew tired of being a puppet, and who leaves his throne to seek adventure and love in a land across the sea. The plot isn't new but Mr. Arliss makes it convincingly realistic and entertaining. Patricia Ellis and Dick Powell are also featured members of the large cast. A drama with superb acting and direction, delightful bits of comedy, and a story that moves along at a merry clip throughout. Recommended to everybody.

Orpheum: "Molly and Me." Joe E. Brown supported by Betty Compson, goes through his peculiar antics in a romantic story of youthful love. Broadway: "Wild Horse Mesa". Zane Grey, whose books on the old west are vivid and alive with action, ought to be pleased with the manner in which this story has been adapted to the screen. In fact from the opening scene, there is almost too much action. For thrills, gunplay, and riding, this melodrama of the west leaves nothing to be desired. Randolph Scott, Sally Blane, Jim Thorpe and Fred Kohler are members of the cast.

The Service and Hospitality Committee reported organization with the following officers: Miss Mae Minard, chairman; Mrs. George Sutt, vice-chairman; Mrs. Arthur Diener, secretary; Elizabeth Foster, treasurer. The committee will serve a chicken dinner to Plattekill, Modena branch of the Dairymen's League on Tuesday.
